The University’s internal deadline for the limited submission competition for The Pew Charitable Trusts, 2016 Pew Scholars Program in the Biomedical Sciences is 7/9/15. If you are interested, please read on for details.

- Purpose: The Pew Scholars Program in the Biomedical Sciences provides funding to assistant professors of outstanding promise in science relevant to the advancement of human health.

- Eligibility:
  - Candidates must have been awarded a doctorate in related to biomedical sciences or medicine.
  - As of November 16, 2015, candidates must hold full-time appointments at the rank of assistant professor.
  - On July 16, 2015, candidates must have been in such an appointment for less than three years (not appointed before July 16, 2012), whether or not such an appointment was on a tenure track. Time spent in clinical internships, residencies, or in work toward board certification does not count as part of this three-year limit.
  - Candidates may be nominated by their institution only twice in total. If a candidate was not selected to receive a Pew Scholars award on their first attempt, they may reapply if they still meet the current criteria.
  - All applicants must be nominated by their institution through an internal selection committee and must complete the 2016 online application.
  - If an applicant’s university has more than one eligible nominating institution or campus, that applicant may only apply from one institution; they may not reapply in a subsequent year from a different one.

- Budget & Project Period: The award provides $240,000 in flexible support, $60,000 per year for four years.

- Timeline:
  - UM Deadline: 7/9/15
  - Application Deadline: 11/16/15. Note: the online application will be open 8/3/15

- Application Details: Since the University of Miami may only submit one (1) proposal, this opportunity is a limited submission competition. An Internal Selection Committee made up of notable scientists at UMMSM will internally review our candidates to determine which application will be nominated to The Pew Charitable Trust nomination deadline on July 15, 2015.

To apply, please send the following materials to Monica Flores at m.flores1@med.miami.edu as one PDF file by 7/9/15:

- Title page: Pew Scholars Program in Biomedical Sciences; Title of your proposal; your name, title, department, contact information.
Research project summary or abstract: The project summary should describe your project sufficiently for our reviewers to understand what you are proposing and its relevance.
Curriculum vitae and NIH-format biosketch including current and pending support.
A letter of support from the chair of your department/division. The letter should be printed on department letterhead and signed by your department/division chair.

Please be cognizant that requested information above is required for the reviewers to make an informed decision/ranking regarding your research proposal for consideration as an internal award applicant. Failure to address each numbered sub-heading above can impact the ranking of your proposal.

***************************************************************************
Faculty and staff in the University of Miami research community who subscribe to the research listserv are encouraged to post messages that facilitate collaboration. Please note, however, that posts from subscribers are not pre-screened or edited by the Office of Research. If you have questions about this listserv, please contact the Office of Research at rescomm@miami.edu.

***************************************************************************
To remove yourself from the list of recipients for future mailings, send an e-mail message to LISTSERV@LISTSERV.MIAMI.EDU. Leave the subject blank and in the body of the message, type only the following words: UNSUBSCRIBE RESEARCH-L